Dear Parents and Carers,

Thank you for supporting World Book Day this week. There was such a range of fantastic outfits and the children enjoyed sharing stories and taking part in the poet workshops.

Next week is British Science Week and classes will spend time on Tuesday completing investigations! The purpose of British Science Week is to encourage people of all ages to get involved in various scientific disciplines. Science helps us to understand the world that we live in, and it also helps provide solutions to difficult problems in real life situations. Children will have to show logical thinking and draw conclusions based upon data.

We will also have collective worships challenging the stereotypes of scientists and learning about the difference local scientists are making.

Finally, thank you to Friends of Coddington School for creating and delivering over 400 Mother's Day gifts. Not an easy job but appreciated by many.

Thank you for your continued support,

Mrs R. Major.
